THOUGHT FOR THE MONTH

I guess you know that something is far from straightforward when a current archbishop and a former archbishop take opposing views on it. It is all the more unusual to find such difference of opinion when it concerns an issue of great moral significance. I refer of course to the issue of the proposed bill on assisted dying, recently debated in the House of Lords, when Archbishop Justin Welby spoke against and one of his predecessors George Carey in favour.

I find this a deeply difficult issue myself, and I hesitated before picking up my pen to write about it. Difficult it may be, but it is of huge importance, and therefore I think it behoves all Christians to think about it and wrestle with the issues, so with that in mind I share these reflections as a thought for this month.

For my part, I have been opposed to any legalisation of assisted dying for some time. I will not pretend that I find it easy deciding about this, and I do understand where some of its advocates are coming from. There are places like Oregon where such legislation has been in place for a while and which offers a legal and structured opportunity for people to end their lives with medical assistance.

For my part I keep coming back to a deep sense of how profound the gift of life is. As the symbolic words of Genesis make clear, life is God given and I find it difficult to see how we can enshrine the taking of life in law. Despite all the changes in moral codes, the influence of the Ten Commandments still underpins our society and 'thou shalt not kill' is intrinsic. Yes, we make exceptions, most significantly in our belief in the justification of killing as part of war. Looking at our world today, however, I think we have to acknowledge that the taking of life in that way is itself a sign of failure.

I feel too that it is highly debateable to ask the medical profession to take on the role of ending life in the premeditated way envisaged by the proposed legislation. Many doctors would understandably balk at that. In contrast, what many doctors would welcome is a more even spread of palliative care services with improved funding for such treatment and ongoing research into pain control. The support possible for the dying has increased dramatically in recent years but we should be working to extend it and make sure that it is not subject to a postcode lottery where access to services is so much better in one area than another.

Let me say that I appreciate something of the pressures which can cause people to want to end their lives, and the end of life circumstances being considered by those in favour of assisted dying are indeed challenging. Twelve years as a Samaritan volunteer taught me to have a deep sense of compassion for those who felt driven to such despair. In saying that I think that compassion is a key word. The gospels refer to Jesus having compassion for people. The word is used there very much with its Latin derivation in mind, 'com pati', to suffer alongside. The key is what we can do to come alongside the dying, making their lives as pain free and supported as possible, in compassion.

Many years of working in the field of care for older people has caused me to have grave concern that if we once authorise assisted dying then we might embark on a slippery moral slope into making the very old and vulnerable feel they are a burden and ought to seek an end for the sake of their loved ones. Many conditions in later life are extremely difficult but they are not beyond the reach of compassion. As many of you will know, I recently lost my own mother after a long battle with Alzheimer's disease which involved some seven years in a nursing home. In the latter years when she was chair bound and unable to feed herself or speak, I asked myself a lot of questions about her circumstances, but I never felt the wish to instigate her dying, albeit that I hoped for a natural end to her life. Despite the disease, even in the end stages there were moments of deep communion with her, without words but precious and lasting.

I do not think this debate is helped by any form of antagonism between those of differing views. I respect those who in all conscience feel differently from me. I think we ought as a society to continue to engage in this debate and encourage our politicians not to be afraid to bring together doctors, theologians, lawyers and patient groups for an ongoing moral dialogue which engages not just with this issue but some of the other challenging ethical matters that confront medicine today, so the changing face of medical need is seen in the widest possible framework. Then perhaps we can forge a compassionate society for the future based on the fullest possible consensus.

MALHAM WI: AUGUST MEETING

We have been very lucky this summer – the events we had planned were outside and the weather did not let us down. We had a really lovely day for our summer outing, to Ripon Workhouse on 9th July, arranged by Muriel. The tour of the Workhouse was excellent – interesting and informative. It gave us a glimpse of the not too distant past that left us feeling we have much for which to be grateful. Later members and guests enjoyed a lunch together and then had time to explore/wander round Ripon in the sunshine. As the time to leave approached most members were to be found on benches in Ripon marketplace - eating ice cream! We travelled by coach and in true WI fashion managed a rendition of ‘Jerusalem’ on the way back!

Our annual BBQ on 27th July at the Rands’ house celebrated our 85th anniversary. It was again a lovely day, just right for a leisurely lunch. Side dishes were provided by members whilst Roger, working simultaneously on two BBQs, supplied excellently cooked burgers, chicken and sausages. We know why we have made him an associate member! After lunch Florence spoke about earlier days in Malham WI and Malhamdale. It is always a great pleasure to listen to Florence and to learn of our heritage from her.

On 13th August we enjoyed lunch at Airton Farm Shop before a visit to the four acre garden at The Grange, Carleton.

For our September Meeting (10th) our friends at Airton WI will be joining us when Julie Clarke, NYWI Federation Chairman, will share her stories and experiences of being a hill farmer’s wife in the Yorkshire Dales.

Guests are always welcome at our meetings; you do not have to commit to joining us. If the topic is of interest, we would be very pleased to see you.

AIRTON WI: AUGUST MEETING

We were visited this month by Rick from Chrysalis Arts who gave us a fascinating presentation about what this Gargrave company actually does. Many of us thought this may be connected with Jan's keen interest in crafts and glitter glue, but we were wrong. The company is actually involved in providing a variety of public art installations from the lock gates at Gargrave (they're engraved with poetry) to temporary enclosures to commemorate Foot and Mouth as well as providing funding and studies to support artists at home and abroad. They also organise the annual North Yorkshire Open Studios events that many of us recently enjoyed.

Next month we will be joining our friends in Malham and our 8th October meeting will feature Di making us jealous with her winter of living in Spain. Visitors are always welcome, if you have any enquiries, please call Jan on 830925.

CONISTON COLD YOUNG FARMERS' CLUB

On the 17th of June Coniston Cold Young Farmers met at Laneside Farm West Bradford by kind permission of Mr. and Mrs. Ian Mc Alpine. The members had a farm walk and viewed the Ribblesdale Jersey dairy herd followed by supper and business meeting. The vote of thanks was given by Paddy Capstick.

On the 24th of June Coniston joined fellow clubs Rathmell, Burton and Lawkland for the Settle District Annual Sports held at Settle College. Coniston had a successful night with some star performances from Freddie Howarth, Jack Pinder Jodie, Hannah and James Bolland, Cameron and Alice Walton. Joe Hudson and Robin Schofield. District President Ruth Dugdale presented Cameron Walton with the winners' Trophy.

The following week it was The Settle District 7-a-side and rounders competition held at North Ribblesdale Rugby Club at Settle. The rounders team lost out to Rathmell by half a rounder. The senior football beat Burton 1- 0.

On the 15th of July members met at Trenhouse Farm by kind permission of the Throup Family for an evening of Orienteering. The evening was organized by Mr Guy Patterson and his company Airenteers. Cameron Walton and Rory Smith won the event by getting all the checkpoints in the shortest time. A very tasty supper was provided by Sue Throup.

On the 22nd of July members met at Dykelands Farm, Airton by kind permission of the Bolland Family. The evening was judging practice for the forthcoming Semple Trophy to be held in August hosted by Slaidburn YFC. The judges were Jo and Michelle Smith, Simon Barker and Paul Bolland. The vote of thanks was given by Angus Walton.

On Saturday 9th of August Coniston Cold Young Farmers held their annual show at The Richard Tottie Memorial Hall and adjacent field at Coniston Cold. There were entries of sheep, calves, poultry and pets with indoor competitions including handicrafts, cooking and artwork. The judges were Mr Brian Moorhouse, Mr Roy Nelson, Mr James Dewhirst for the outdoor events, and Mrs Michelle Pickles and Mrs Cathy Dakin for the indoor classes. The members were lucky with a nice sunny afternoon which was not forecast. Club president Gordon Beresford presented the trophies and Adam Stockton gave the vote of thanks.

Future events include a visit to sheep milking farm in Chipping In Lancashire, a night at a golf driving range, a bowling evening, a quiz night, and the Annual Dinner at the end of September.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH FABRIC APPEAL RAFFLE

The scope of the work needed on the Church has extended since the need to re-roof was first reported. Further investigations by our architect suggest we need to carry out work to the parapet gutters, and remedial work is necessary to reduce condensation within the building through improved drainage and heating. As part of our fundraising drive to carry out the much needed repairs to our Church, we will be selling raffle tickets during September. The draw will take place after our Patronal Festival Service on Sunday 28th September.

We are very grateful indeed to all those who have donated prizes. Their help is much appreciated. This means that we have a splendid array of prizes,:

A week in a holiday cottage in the Lake District (sleeps 7), print by local artist David Cook, bird carving by the late David Tippey, walking stick carved by Ted Ellis, Town End Farm Shop hamper, £100 Marks and Spencer voucher, voucher for beauty treatment at Features Skin Care & Beauty Salon Skipton, voucher to spend on accommodation or a meal at the Buck Inn Malham, voucher for two for a three course meal plus bottle of wine at the Lister Arms Malham, voucher towards a meal at the Victoria Inn Kirkby Malham, two tickets for the 2015 Malham Show, picnic hamper with plates and cutlery, framed map of Yorkshire, bottle of champagne, bottle of malt whisky., bottles of wine

Please do buy tickets, and if you can help sell these to as wide a circle as possible that would be very much appreciated.

For further information and tickets for sale please contact Muriel Bland 830277 or Maureen Dore 830437.

ST. MICHAEL THE ARCHANGEL PATRONAL FESTIVAL

10.00AM SUNDAY 28th SEPTEMBER

Anglican churches tend to hold a special celebration, called a patronal festival, on or near the saint's day of the saint to whom their church is dedicated. At St. Michael's we shall celebrate our Patronal Festival on Sunday 28th September when we shall welcome as our guest preacher the Right Reverend James Bell, the Bishop of Ripon. In the new Diocese of West Yorkshire and the Dales, Bishop Nick Baines is the overall diocesan bishop, but there are area bishops under him responsible for different parts of the new diocese. Bishop James' Ripon area takes in the whole of the Yorkshire Dales. We are delighted to welcome him. Do come along to meet him and join in our worship on this Sunday. The service will be followed by refreshments.

HARVEST FESTIVAL AT ST. MICHAEL'S

11.00 SUNDAY 5th OCTOBER

We shall be celebrating our Harvest Festival this year on Sunday 5th October at 11.00am. This is an hour later than our usual service time of 10.00 so as to make it easier for people to join in with the Harvest Festival Lunch in the Kirkby Malham Parish Hall afterwards. The service will be a non-eucharistic Family Service. For those wanting to receive communion that day, there will be a Book of Common Prayer Communion service earlier at 9.00am.

Celebrating the harvest is an important part of our church year and particularly important for a rural community like ours, so do come along to both service and lunch.
